Complicated Ideology is Costing the State its Social Housing.

Lorcan Sirr

_Dublin Institute of Technology_, lorcan.sirr@dit.ie

Follow this and additional works at: http://arrow.dit.ie/beschrecmed

Part of the Urban, Community and Regional Planning Commons, and the Urban Studies and Planning Commons

Recommended Citation

Sirr, L. (2016) Complicated ideology is costing the state it’s social housing. _The Sunday Times_ 07.02.2016.
C ouldn’t replace his old sofa, nor have a few more seats, which is why he was thinking about buying a new sofa at the moment. However, all of a sudden, he realized that he needed to save money for his new sofa, so he decided to buy a sofa from his local furniture store. He found a sofa that he liked and decided to buy it right away.

The sofa was still in its box, and he had been waiting for a long time to get it. Finally, he decided to order it online and wait for it to arrive. He couldn’t wait to get his new sofa and start enjoying it. He was so happy about it that he couldn’t stop smiling. He was thinking about all the things he could do with his new sofa, and he was really looking forward to it. He knew that it would make his life so much better, and he couldn’t wait to have it in his living room.

The next day, he received a call from the furniture store, and they told him that his sofa was ready for pickup. He was so excited that he drove to the store right away. When he arrived, he saw the sofa in the corner, and he couldn’t believe how beautiful it was. He immediately bought it and took it home. He couldn’t wait to start using it and enjoying all the benefits it would bring.

The sofa was so comfortable, and he loved the way it looked in his living room. He was so happy about it that he decided to order more furniture from the same store. He knew that he needed to save money, but he was so happy about his new sofa that he couldn’t help himself. He was thinking about all the good things that would come with his new furniture, and he was really looking forward to it. He knew that it would make his life so much better, and he couldn’t wait to have it at home.