RAISE A GRAND WEEK:

WELL its here at last, Raise A Grand Week or R.A.G. Week as it is more commonly known as. Well it's here, get up out of your seat and do it (the week that is). We the R.A.G Committee have been busy the past few weeks getting it together, trying to get as much sponsorship as is possible, trying to get on with each other, trying to put together what should be a great week.

There are many events on, the mystery disco on Monday night is kindly sponsored by Heineken and tickets are only £1. Don't bother asking anyone where it's on, 'cause they don't know! Well we do but were not telling. The R.A.G. Ball is on in the Boardwalk nite club at O'Connell Bridge, Why? you may ask well for one it's the largest available venue in the city centre and also because it's actually not a bad looking place remember it's hired by us for us so it's just the same as any other venue we have hired. There's the band comp. in Slatterys of Capel St., there's the luv at first sigh thing, the other things.... hey check the programme further on in this R.A.G. Mag.

Please have a good time, please support the charities: I.S.P.C.C + Friends of the Elderly and finally don't mess it up on anyone. The pond will be drained for the week so don't dive into it!

Enjoy it cause it won't last for ever,

The R.A.G. Week COMM.

There will be no adm. i.e a free gig and it would be great if B. St. Students would turn up to support their college bands. Thanks to Track Mix Studios for their sponsorship of the Competition.

You turn up on Sunday - the usual stuff,
The crack in the Terrace, the chat on the bus,
The walk - nothing special - is one of the sort
in this rambling, wandering, evergreen sport
And you meet
You don't really know him, but deep down in the Pub
You're suddenly forming a Bachelor's Club,
It doesn't last long, as the Nay weekend snares
A few hearts and just some of that devil-may-care
But you laughed
Whether tramping the mountains or wired to the wall or racing with Donogh around Glenmalure,
In the Mournes philosophically shooting the breeze
Or furniture moving in Kerry with ease
Made you smile
A goodly companion and one of the boys,
so easy to talk to and full of the joys of the mountains - you knew that he had what it takes
And then you hear this and your heart nearly breaks
And you weep
For Edith for Liz and for Frank and Lorraine, and for Yogi - who'll all bear the brunt of pain
For his climbing companions and friends in the caves,
and all those who knew him - the bravest of braves
Are hit hard
And now a week later he's here every day
In small little things and in so many ways
The laugh in his eye and the lift of his voice
Can catch you - but mainly the absence of noise
Gets you down
And it's not in the photos - it's not in the lines
That people will write about all the good times
In Dalkey or Glendalough, Kerry or Howth
In the myriad places that nurtured his growth
He'll be found
But it's out on the walks and its up on the climbs
In the back of the bus at the best of good times
In the sound of a laugh in the corrie below
In the kiss of the sun on the melt of the snow
He'll live on

18. The male must be ready at all times.
Thoughts of a Surveyor.

At last, I thought I'd never get a seat. It's the weekend already .... plop! Just two days more classes and it's time to party. I'll go to "Club M" tonight and that 21st party tomorrow sounds like great fun. If I get up on Sunday I'll probably go rock climbing. That's always cool.

I wish I could have gone to that party last night. Mike said it was great. He popped in this morning to wash his hands, he laughed when he saw I was still waiting. I don't really care now because it was worth it. Ahh!! it's not all bad though. I missed that exam on Wednesday, when it was explained to the lecturer where I was he gave me an exemption. "Thats cool huhu,huh.... Sorry Beavis.

No really, I think there are the same amount of guys this year but it didn't seem half as bad as last year. Maybe we are eating healthier .... plop! More fruit, o.k. some thing. Just finished! I'm lucky, really cos' I was only queing since Tuesday this time! Wipe ...... Flush!

Outside -
"Sorry mate but it smelt like that before I went in".

My unimportant point is "are we going to get any more student toilets in here, cos' it's ruining my social life".

Thanks for reading......surveyor.

Man Watching
A completely new phenomenon from the toilet watchers club of 1908 A.D.

Excitable type: Pants are twisted, cannot find the hole, rips pants in anger.
Timid type: Cannot piss if anyone is watching pretends he has pissed and sneaks back later.
Sociable type: Joins pals for a piss, whether he wants one or not.
Indifferent: All urinals been used, he pisses in the wash hand basin.
Nosey type: Whistles loudly, peeps over partition to check out the opposition.
Clever type: Pisses without holding tool, shows off by adjusting tie at the same time.
Thorough type: Opens three buttons to take out tool when two would suffice.
Absent minded type: Opens waistcoat, takes out his tie and pisses down his leg.
Worried type: Not sure what he has been up to lately, rushes it and misses the bowl.
Childish type: Looks at bottom of urinal while pissing to watch bubbles.
Drunken type: Pulls out tool, sees two, puts one back and pisses in his trousers.
Cockeyed type: Stands in one cubicle and pisses into an other.
Embarrassed type: Covers his tool with both hands and pisses through a precise opening in fingers.
