USI Congress

Last weekend in the far off city of Limerick, 160 student activists and do gooders from all over this island came together under the banner of USI to formulate policy on issues effecting (some would say infecting) the students they represent.

In all DIT had 24 delegates in attendance and of those 24, 5 were from DIT Bolton st. They being: Ronan Haughey, site president; Alison Flannagan, site deputy pres.; Derek Burke, acting P.R.O. and incoming Ents officer; Colin Costello, incoming Deputy pres. and Shona McKenna, acting Equality officer.

Congress is the annual meeting at which policy for the national Union is made. It would be similar to the A.G.M. of our S.U. in that our A.G.M. formulates policy for our Union.

Motions are proposed by the many colleges in attendance and are debated when necessary. Usually, as was the case this year the debate was very healthy if you were in favour of hearing the other side of the story and not if you were lost in your own world. Ditsu proposed many motions and a number of them were most interesting and highly debated.

One motion from Ditsu proposed that DIT and the RTC's should receive the same funding per head as students in Universities. In proposing Ditsu president Colman Byrne stated the fact that services and facilities to DIT and RTC students were of a much poorer standard to those in the Universities and that students regardless of the college they attend should receive similar funding. The motion was strongly opposed by many University colleges and a speaker from UCD felt that it was not possible to fund all equally as the facilities each provide were varying and different. Points such as unit costing were raised but in the end the motion was passed. and it is now policy of USI to bring the question of equal funding to those responsible for the issue at government.

An other motion from Ditsu which was well debated was one dealing with USI Affiliation fees. Each college with membership to USI pays £2.50 per full time student and £1.25 per part time student. For many member colleges this is quite a substantial amount when the capitation for some S.U.s is as low a £5 per student as it is in Carlow RTC.

Ronan Haughey in proposing the motion said in his 2 years of involvement in USI the issue of cost to the local union was never addressed properly and that many non-affiliated unions will remain so due to the costs incurred. The motion called for a report on possible areas of a commercial nature USI could get involved in be presented to the last national council of this academic year (national council is a four times annual meeting of all member unions). The motion was carried unanimously and this can only mean good for our own as well as all unions if the work is carried out.

Ditsu can be proud of its level of participation and also by representing the student body of DIT in accordance with policy from referendums and council meetings.

On the issue of womens autonomy and womens rights officers, Ditsu had to defend the wishes of DIT students to have equality officers instead of womens rights officers and the debate was often heated and electric. The main thrust of the debate was an attack on Ditsu policy and questions were raised of the incapability of particular male welfare officers and equality officers. Many speakers were emotional in their speeches and a number of delegates from DIT spoke of the intimidation they have received from the womens movement in USI.

The weekend was tough, on congress floor from 10-10 and in the bar from 10.05-9.45, 15 minutes spared for showering etc, etc!

Wed. the 26th of April,
7.00 p.m.
Social Area Bolton st DIT.
The Cairdeas Soc. in the college has been very recently doing its bit for the peace process and as is normal their recent meetings were excellently attended and credit is due to all who attended.

During lunchtime on Wednesday the 22nd the Cairdeas society held its first open forum on the Peace Process.

The speaker was Meath Co. Councilor Joe Reilly representing Sinn Fein. The meeting was well attended and councilor Reilly outlined his parties policy on The Peace Process. In his address to the meeting Mr Reilly said it was his first time to speak to a group of students and he welcomed the opportunity to do so. Councillor Reilly said that presently this Island was going through a time of change and that the natural process of change was radically brought forward by the Peace Process.

In dealing with the legitimate fears of unionists he said the results of the process must meet everybody's needs but in saying that he also mentioned that his party were politically opposed to unionism. In summing up the speaker used South Africa as an example in saying that "I have no doubt the people of Ireland will achieve in 5 years what took 4 in South Africa."

Questions followed ranging from issues such as punishment beatings to Sinn Feins social policies. In closing the meeting Martin Butler from Cairdeas thanked all those who attended and specially the speaker Mr Joe Reilly.

On Friday of the same week again at lunchtime Reverand Jim Rae spoke on 'The Peace Process- a Protestant perspective'. Rev. Rae is a methodist clergyman from the predominantly working class unionist East Belfast. The speaker briefed the forum on the unionist opinion in the community in which he worked, he also emphasised a much forgotten point that had not the Churches in the north not taken such an active role in promoting peace that their could have been a Bosnain situation in the North. On the question of a united Ireland Rev. Rae said that the Protestant community would need to given clear indication from the south with regard to their security and equal status as citizens of a integrated Ireland. Also Rev. Rae felt that the parties that were not helping in bringing the process forward were predominately from a unionist background. The meeting was also well attended and credit must go to Cairdeas for promoting discussion on the topic of Northern Ireland. A topic often not discussed in southern colleges but one which has been part and parcel of college life in Bolton st for many years due to the work of Cairdeas and other interested groups and individuals.
ENTS Officer

Due to certain circumstances, Maeve Peoples has resigned as Ents Officer for Bolton Street Students Union. Maeve handed in her resignation on Thursday March 30th. She offered one of her reasons for resigning was due to a personality clash with the current Students Union President in DIT Bolton St., Ronan Haughey. In her letter to Ronan Notifying the Student body of her decision Maeve stated she hoped her service as Entertainment Officer was beneficial to both the students of Bolton St and to the DIT Student Union Body.
