Bring Back State-Run Social Housing

Lorcan Sirr
Dublin Institute of Technology, lorcan.sirr@dit.ie

Follow this and additional works at: http://arrow.dit.ie/beschrecmed
Part of the Urban, Community and Regional Planning Commons, and the Urban Studies and Planning Commons

Recommended Citation

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-Share Alike 3.0 License
Cool new villas are giving golf resorts serious design kudos, says Hugh Graham

...The two 18-hole courses are expected to be completed by next year. The developer, a local company called 'Golf and Country Estates', has already started work on the first course, which will feature bunkers, fairways and greens. The second course, which is due to open in 2018, will include a clubhouse, pro shop, and driving range. The total cost of the project is estimated at €20m.

...The new developments are set to transform the area's image as a golf destination. Already, the resort has seen an increase in bookings and interest from both local and international golfers. The new courses are expected to attract even more visitors, further boosting the local economy.

...The resort has also invested in new accommodation facilities, including a luxury hotel and Villas. The hotel, which opened last year, has received positive reviews for its modern design and excellent service. The Villas, which will be completed in 2018, will offer a range of options from basic studio apartments to large family villas.

...The new golf courses and accommodation facilities are expected to create numerous job opportunities for the local community. The resort has already started recruiting for a range of positions, including golf professionals, maintenance staff, and sales and marketing roles. The resort is committed to providing local employees with training and development opportunities to help them succeed in their careers.

...The resort is also investing in sustainable practices, such as using renewable energy sources and implementing water conservation measures. These efforts are expected to reduce the resort's carbon footprint and contribute to a greener future for the area.

...Overall, the new developments at the golf resort are expected to bring significant benefits to the area, including increased tourism, job opportunities, and improved infrastructure. The resort is committed to working with the local community to ensure that the new developments are a success and that the area continues to thrive in the years to come.