1995

Easy Does it Cookbook

Brenda Costigan

Follow this and additional works at: http://arrow.dit.ie/irckbooks

Part of the Arts and Humanities Commons

Recommended Citation

http://arrow.dit.ie/irckbooks/121

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-Share Alike 3.0 License
Contents

Introduction ...................................................................................... 6
Soups, Starters and Light Meals .................................................... 7
Fish ..................................................................................................... 27
Chicken ............................................................................................ 47
Meat ................................................................................................... 63
Vegetables ....................................................................................... 79
Desserts ........................................................................................... 103
Cakes and Bread ............................................................................ 125
Recipes in "Anything I Can Do..." cookbook ................................ 140
Recipes in "For Goodness Sake" cookbook ................................... 141
Index ............................................................................................... 142
Easy Does It is Brenda Costigan's third cookery book. A collection of her favourite recipes with quite a Mediterranean touch to them. Constantly aware of healthy eating guidelines her recipes also allow for the occasional self-indulgence! Easy to follow, her recipes are clearly explained with lots of superb photographs.

Brenda Costigan is a well known cookery writer. Her other two cookery books Anything I can do... and For Goodness Sake are proven best sellers. Her face is well known on television on R.T.E. where she presents the cookery on Live at 3 and on BBC as a guest on Good Morning with Anne and Nick. Her voice is familiar on radio being a frequent guest on the Pat Kenny Show and other radio shows. Her weekly column in the Sunday Independent has had a huge readership over many years.

Brenda is a qualified Home Economics graduate. She lives in Dublin with her husband and they have a daughter and two sons.